THE GAZETTE. THURSDAY, AUGUST 2. KEYSTONE DEMOCRATS.

Ticket Nominated and Platform Adopted—Pattison Endorsed.

HARRIS, Pa., Aug. 1.—The Democratic state convention assembled at 10:15, and was called to order by Chairman Hensel in a few remarks. The list of delegates was called, and for the first time in many years no contested seats were announced. Robert E. Wright, of Lehigh county, was chosen temporary chairman by acclamation, together with the necessary officers for the transaction of the preliminary business.

A resolution that the committee on credentials, permanent organization, and resolutions consist of one delegate from each congressional district, was adopted, and the convention adjourned until 2 p. m.

When the convention reassembled, Robert E. James as permanent president and the customary vice presidents and secretaries were selected. Upon taking the chair Mr. James paid a very high and eloquent tribute to the Democratic party, which he claimed was instrumental in redeeming the state from the infamy into which it had fallen for years past. The duty of the party, he said, was not nearly finished. It might take two, yes, perhaps ten years, but it would be accomplished by faithful performance in the future, as in the past year. Governor Pattison was highly indorsed, and in closing, Mr. James beseeched all members of the party, and those who desired the accomplishment of the best ends to stick to the Democratic party, through whose exertions it could be accomplished. Chairman Hensel's work of the last campaign was given particular notice, and the allusion was undeniably applicable.

The following persons were placed in nomination for and by general: W. Hayes Grier, Lancaster; John Swan, Allegheny; George R. Guss, Chester; Jacob Zeigler, Butler; Robert Taggart, Warren; J. K. Duff, Allegheny; E. L. Brown, Erie; Robert J. Nicholson, Jefferson; William N. Hirt, Philadelphia; J. F. McKernan, Armstrong.

The first ballot resulted in complimentary votes to the different delegates. Taggart and Zeigler carried on the second ballot, and on the third there was a regular rally for the former, and Taggart was nominated by a vote of 103 to 77. The nomination was made unanimous.

The following names were then presented as candidates for state treasurer: Thomas McReynolds, Bucks; Joseph Powell, Berks; McCoil, Schuyl. On the first ballot McReynolds received 132 votes; Powell, 119; McCoil, 81; Mackin, 13. The second ballot resulted in the selection of Powell, he receiving 275 votes. The nominees were presented to the convention, and in short speeches accepted the nomination.

Chairman Hensel then addressed the convention on the platform, after which the convention adjourned with the following preamble: The Democracy of Pennsylvania, true to the fundamental faith of their party, reassert their belief in the strict construction and rigid enforcement of the federal constitution. They uphold the sanctity of personal liberty, the security of private property, and the rights of local self-government. They believe in the genuine and deep-reaching civil service reform, which consists in the election to office of honest, intelligent, capable, and courageous public servants, who will faithfully administer their trusts and who will be held to a strict accountability for such discharge of it, and who will redress and purge the departments of the general government from corruption and fraud with which they have been permeated under Republican rule, and which that party has shown itself unable and unwilling to eradicate. They believe in such taxation of the people as is requisite for the necessities of the government, economically administered, and that import duties should be so adjusted in their application as to prevent unequal burdens, and to encourage productive industries at home, and afford just compensation to labor, but not to create or foster monopolies. They denounce the proposition of the Republican party that the people should be taxed to raise a surplus fund for the Federal government to distribute among states. The people should only be taxed so much as is absolutely indispensable for the frugal conduct of their affairs, and not 1 cent for surplus and no unnecessary taxation. The surplus in the treasury should be faithfully applied to the payment of the public debt. The money not needed for the expenses of the government should remain in the pockets of the people. To this end we favor the entire abolition of the present system of internal taxation as a measure of relief demanded by the people from an unnecessary and unequal burden. They demand that the government should redress all its express and implied obligations as to coinage; that it shall maintain and defend the rights of American citizens at home and abroad. They insist on reserving public lands for actual settlers—not another acre for corporations. And they further declare that the administration of Governor Pattison has vindicated the pledge of reform upon which it was elected, and his upright, intelligent, and courageous exercise of the executive power deserves the unqualified approbation of his party and of the people of the country.

It then congratulates the state upon the real reforms accomplished by the Democratic house of representatives; endorses the demand of the Democratic senators for honest, just and true appointment, and commends the governor for calling an extraordinary session of the legislature; calls for the enforcement of the constitutional provisions regulating corporations; endorses the action of the legislature in passing laws protecting honest workmen from the competition of convict labor; expresses sympathy with labor in its efforts to better its condition, and endorses arbitration as a means to settle disputes between labor and capital; calls for a revision of the tax laws.

"Zadok's" Prophecy.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—The Star says the Pennsylvania railroad train, on which the president was a passenger, had just left the Gunpowder bridge, some sixteen miles north of Baltimore, on its way south, when there came crashing through the clouds a wilder of the private car of President Roberts of the railroad company, in which President Arthur was seated, a stone nearly as large as an egg, which struck the flagman, Charles Sparks, on the left cheek. The president at the time was about midway the car, some ten feet behind where Mr. Sparks was sitting, the president's messenger, "Alcock," being at the rear of the train. It was claimed as the fulfillment of the prediction of Zadok, the London astrologist, for July, which reads: "The president of the United States will be in personal danger at the latter part of the month, and should take precautions accordingly."

The Ischia Horror.

NAPLES, Aug. 1.—King Humbert decided that the search for the victims of the earthquake shall continue. Six more persons have been rescued. Another shock was felt in the afternoon, but no damage was done. Owing to the effluvia from decomposing remains all but the soldiers have ceased searching for bodies.

Many times you want to keep meat or fish for several days. Lay it in a solution of Rex Magnus over night and you can keep it for weeks. Rex Magnus keeps milk a week or more without stirring in a little of the "Snow Flake" brand.

"Strength for Mind and Body."

There is more strength restoring power in a bottle of Parker's Ginger Tonic than in a barrel of malt or a gallon of milk. This explains why invalids find it such a wonderful invigorant for mind and body.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR. Opening of the Louisville Exposition. The President's Speech.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 2.—Accompanied by Major B. Dupont, president of the southern exposition, and the reception committee, President Arthur emerged from the private entrance of the Galt house at 10 o'clock a. m., and, entering a carriage drawn by four beautiful bay horses, was drawn with his cabinet to the exposition. The escort consisted of the Louisville legion, four deep, commanded by Col. Castellan and Maj. Speed, in full dress. A detachment of thirty-two police in full dress followed in front, and in front of them rode eight mounted police. The seventh regiment band followed just behind the police. Then followed carriages containing the remainder of the president's party and other distinguished visitors.

The procession moved down Main three squares to Fourth street, and on Fourth street to the exposition, entering at the eastern main entrance was conducted to a stand erected in the center of the building facing the grand organ, and the choir of 500 voices. As the president mounted the stand he was greeted by cheer after cheer from the crowd around the central part of the main building and the galleries above.

After prayer, offered by Dr. Perkins, pastor of St. Paul's church, Mayor Jacob delivered a speech of welcome to the president. At the conclusion of this speech Governor Blackbarn introduced the chief magistrate of the country, who responded as follows:

THE PRESIDENT'S SPEECH.

FELLOW CITIZENS—Count myself fortunate in being within the borders of this beautiful city of the south on a day which must be a great undertaking, an undertaking of unusual interest and importance enters here and now upon its career. I congratulate the promoters and managers of this enterprise, that even at this early threshold of its existence it gives abundant pledges of success. The zeal and enthusiasm which they have displayed in their labors of preparation and the frequent findings of congratulation and cheer with which these labors have been enlightened and made glad, the splendid triumphs of American genius, activity and skill which are everywhere to be seen, the eagerness of the eager multitude that throngs its hospitable streets, all are tokens that your enterprise will be crowned with brilliant, far-reaching, and enduring success. It will not only be a source of pride and honor to this country, but it will be a standard of attainment by its suggesting new wants. It will incite new activity. It will disclose new and hitherto unexplored, and undreamed of resources to your prompt and profitable development. In countless ways it will promote the arts of peace, proclaiming harmony, good will, and brotherly kindness throughout the land until all the inhabitants thereof, I now declare that the southern exposition is opened, and may God speed the fulfillment of all its lofty and ennobling purposes.

The president closed his remarks by reaching up, and amid the deafening cheers of the crowd pulled a silken cord which dangled above the stand, thereby opening the theatre of the great Reynolds-Corlies engine, putting in motion all the engines in the main building, and the melody of 500 voices in chorus and the melody of 500 voices in chorus.

After spending a couple of hours in the exposition and the art gallery, the president and party were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Dupont at their residence in the park adjoining the exposition building, and forming part of the grounds. He was then driven to the Galt house, where he remained until 7 o'clock, when he and his party went to the Pendennis hotel, where they dined. Afterward they were driven about the city to enjoy the decorations and illuminations, which are most excellent and profuse.

The Louisville Anglers' club presented President Arthur with a Meekle rule of excellence, which was accepted with much pleasure. The president's private secretary, Mr. J. M. McDonald, received by him with a useful and pleasant little speech.

From his reception at the depot, the dinner given him at the Galt house by the exposition committee until now, everything has been done in the most informal manner. The opening of the exposition was a complete success in all respects, except that there is a barren much unoccupied space, giving it a barren appearance, and the exhibits will all be in place before September. The city is full of strangers, and the exposition promises to be all that its projectors have expected it would be.

M'DONALD.

The New York Sun Tells What His Defect is in Its View.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The Sun's Washington correspondent, after giving the history of the nomination by President Hayes of Stanley Matthews for the supreme bench, and stating that among Matthews' supporters was Joseph E. McDonald, continues: "Garfield nominated Matthews on the 15th of March, 1877, for the same place. Mr. McDonald's term as senator had expired, but he was in Washington during a part of the executive session of the senate, and did his best to have Matthews confirmed. The nomination finally passed by a majority of one, procured through two false pairs, and by a bargain for the appointment of another judge."

"Mr. McDonald is an honorable man, and will not deny the part he took for Stanley Matthews, which was a source of regret to many friends. His defect as a public man is weakness in yielding to importunity, even when his own mind is morally opposed to the concession. Too much amiability, when duty demands sternness, is not the characteristic of a statesman. Mr. McDonald is a man who needed in the White House. Mr. McDonald has many excellent qualities, but self-assertion does not shine out among them."

Annual Meeting of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union of America.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The delegates to the Catholic Total Abstinence Union of America convention met in Brooklyn. This is their thirteenth annual convention, and delegates were present from all parts of the country. After assembling the delegates proceeded to the cathedral, where solemn high mass was celebrated. Bishop Laughlin made a brief address of welcome and encouragement. The delegates, who numbered 250, were received by a band of music, and escorted by uniformed carmen to the Philadelphia hotel, where the convention opened. Rev. Joseph H. Collier, of Winona, Minn., president of the National Union, presided, and Philip A. Nolan, general secretary, recorded.

Ed Riley, of Chicago, was shot in the head while returning from a picnic at Deerpark, Pa. Riley, the brother of the wounded man, caused the arrest of Detective Pat Costello for murderous assault, but it is believed that Pat Riley accidentally shot his brother. Ed Riley is not seriously injured. Costello gave bail for his appearance.

The Chicago & Alton road declared a semi-annual dividend of 4 per cent.

"Oh, my back!" is a common exclamation and expresses a world of misery and suffering. It is singular this pain arises from such various causes. Kidney disease, liver complaint, wasting affections, colds, rheumatism, dyspepsia, overwork and nervous debility are all causes. When thus ailing seek prompt relief. It can be found in Brown's Iron Bitters. It builds up from the foundation by making the blood rich and pure. Leading physicians and ministers use and recommend it. It has cured many, and if you are a sufferer try it.

Mr. John Myer, Shobergon, Wis., says: "I used Brown's Iron Bitters for rheumatism and pains and am now well."

Mrs. G. F. Henszelmann, Johnsonville, Wis., says: "I used Brown's Iron Bitters for heart disease, weakness, general debility, etc., and feel like a new person."

Flattering Crop News.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 2.—R. P. Bacon, the well-known grain commission man of this city, has returned from a trip through the wheat-producing sections of the northwest, and brings a very flattering report of the outlook. To a reporter he stated that he found the prospects far brighter than his anticipations, and his observations, he found, correspond with those of leading grain men in Minneapolis and elsewhere. He said the millers and commission men of Minneapolis appeared to be jubilant over the change in the prospects. One of the persons he met, the principal grain-dealer on the line of the Winona & St. Peter Road, who has buyers at all the stations on that line, he anticipates an increase of 20 to 25 per cent. in the crop on that line, as compared with last year, and considers it the heaviest crop since 1871. He estimates that the Winona & St. Peter line will turn out 6,000,000 bushels of wheat. "What little wheat I saw myself, stands unusually thick. The head appears heavy, and the color of the straw is excellent. It appears to me from the present outlook that the spring wheat crop as a whole will turn out fully 20 per cent. in excess of last year if we have a continuance of the present favorable weather until the crop is secured."

The Examination at Port Elizabeth—Protection of Officials in Ireland.

PORT ELIZABETH, Aug. 2.—The examination of O'Donnell for the murder of James Carey was resumed. The eldest son of Carey deposed his father and O'Donnell had been on friendly terms throughout the voyage, and had often played cards. The case was then adjourned until the prisoner to call the steward of the steamer Melrose as a witness.

Mrs. Carey says there was an Irishman named Kelly from Wexford on the steamer Kinfauns Castle, and her husband was suspicious of him.

Carey's son also deposed. He found a check for £100 in his father's pocket after the shooting.

Mrs. Carey deposed she was in an adjoining room when her husband was shot. He ran toward her, saying: "Maggie, I am shot. O'Donnell has shot me!" It was then O'Donnell, replying to her question, said he had been sent to do it.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—It is reported that O'Donnell fled to America, and the Fenian demonstration in 1877, and that he went to San Francisco in 1877 as a Fenian agent.

The press association reports that O'Donnell, before embarking for Africa, boasted he had followed Mrs. Carey from Dublin.

James Carey was shot at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The steamer Melrose, on which the shooting occurred, arrived at Port Elizabeth at 2 o'clock on Monday afternoon.

The Fenian agent, who was committed to official jurisdiction when he was charged with the protection of officials connected with the Phoenix park murder trials have been resumed.

It is astonishing what those who have lost that priceless blessing, health, will endure to regain it. Here the most fastidious ladies, who would shudder at soiling their dainty shoes with the dirt of the street, sit with the greatest equanimity, up to their chins in a horrible looking, thick, black mass, not unlike lumpy tar, composed of soft mineral bog. This is the "moor" or "mud bath," so efficacious in rheumatism, gout, paralysis, nervousness, etc. A tub of clean mineral water is placed along side, into which the patient passes to be transformed again from black to white. In most cases, after a fair trial, the greatest sufferers are blest with renewed health and go on their way rejoicing.

PORT ELIZABETH, Aug. 2.—The examination of O'Donnell for the murder of James Carey was resumed. The eldest son of Carey deposed his father and O'Donnell had been on friendly terms throughout the voyage, and had often played cards. The case was then adjourned until the prisoner to call the steward of the steamer Melrose as a witness.

Mrs. Carey says there was an Irishman named Kelly from Wexford on the steamer Kinfauns Castle, and her husband was suspicious of him.

Carey's son also deposed. He found a check for £100 in his father's pocket after the shooting.

Mrs. Carey deposed she was in an adjoining room when her husband was shot. He ran toward her, saying: "Maggie, I am shot. O'Donnell has shot me!" It was then O'Donnell, replying to her question, said he had been sent to do it.

LONDON, Aug. 2.—It is reported that O'Donnell fled to America, and the Fenian demonstration in 1877, and that he went to San Francisco in 1877 as a Fenian agent.

The press association reports that O'Donnell, before embarking for Africa, boasted he had followed Mrs. Carey from Dublin.

James Carey was shot at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The steamer Melrose, on which the shooting occurred, arrived at Port Elizabeth at 2 o'clock on Monday afternoon.

The Fenian agent, who was committed to official jurisdiction when he was charged with the protection of officials connected with the Phoenix park murder trials have been resumed.

It is astonishing what those who have lost that priceless blessing, health, will endure to regain it. Here the most fastidious ladies, who would shudder at soiling their dainty shoes with the dirt of the street, sit with the greatest equanimity, up to their chins in a horrible looking, thick, black mass, not unlike lumpy tar, composed of soft mineral bog. This is the "moor" or "mud bath," so efficacious in rheumatism, gout, paralysis, nervousness, etc. A tub of clean mineral water is placed along side, into which the patient passes to be transformed again from black to white. In most cases, after a fair trial, the greatest sufferers are blest with renewed health and go on their way rejoicing.

Flattering Crop News.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 2.—R. P. Bacon, the well-known grain commission man of this city, has returned from a trip through the wheat-producing sections of the northwest, and brings a very flattering report of the outlook. To a reporter he stated that he found the prospects far brighter than his anticipations, and his observations, he found, correspond with those of leading grain men in Minneapolis and elsewhere. He said the millers and commission men of Minneapolis appeared to be jubilant over the change in the prospects. One of the persons he met, the principal grain-dealer on the line of the Winona & St. Peter Road, who has buyers at all the stations on that line, he anticipates an increase of 20 to 25 per cent. in the crop on that line, as compared with last year, and considers it the heaviest crop since 1871. He estimates that the Winona & St. Peter line will turn out 6,000,000 bushels of wheat. "What little wheat I saw myself, stands unusually thick. The head appears heavy, and the color of the straw is excellent. It appears to me from the present outlook that the spring wheat crop as a whole will turn out fully 20 per cent. in excess of last year if we have a continuance of the present favorable weather until the crop is secured."

—I. C. Brownell, the North Main street grocer, has a good supply of choice Georgia watermelons.

—The Bower City band will give an open air concert in the court house park on Saturday evening.

—There is one less canine in the city—some one dispatched a unlicensed cur last evening, but by what means is not known, as there was no inquest held.

—The humorously-inclined business men on West Milwaukee street had some fun this afternoon sending a green clerk from place to place on a "fool's errand."

—The body of little Willie Hines, who was drowned on Tuesday noon, at Monterey, has not yet been recovered. Parties are watching for the body to come to the surface.

—A heavy rain storm set in here last evening about nine o'clock and continued for nearly an hour. Considerable rain fell, which must have caught a good amount of barley out and unprotected.

—Rev. T. W. McLean, of Ypsilanti, Michigan, chaplain of the first regiment, and formerly rector of Trinity church in this city, telegraphs Adjutant Newman that he will endeavor to be in Janesville during the encampment of the regiment.

—The Rev. Dr. Henry Spaulding will, upon the urgent request of his many friends, remain in the city until the first of next week, and assist in the services at Christ church, Sunday, preaching both morning and evening. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

—For the information of all concerned, especially those who have so liberally contributed to the encampment fund of the first regiment, we are authorized to state that there is no sutler attached to the regiment, and that none will be allowed upon or near the camp ground.

—A new plank walk is being laid on the high school grounds to-day. The authorities are also considering the question of replacing the old rotten fence by a new one, or removing it entirely, but have not yet arrived at any conclusion in the matter.

—Only one hundred and seventy-five dog licenses issued at two o'clock this afternoon. Dog owners are coming forward very slowly just now, not one quarter of the curs in the city have been licensed. There will be a good chance for some one to practice shooting in a few days.

—During the concert of the Bower City band on the corn exchange square last evening, some boy in the first ward sent up his kite, with a Chinese lantern attachment. The kite attained a great height, and the morning light in the dark heavens was eagerly watched by a large number of people.

The Rockford Gazette:—"Quite a number of citizens from this city will go to our sister city, Janesville, and remain over Sunday, to witness the regimental encampment and the maneuvering of the soldiers in the same. Arrangements are all perfected, and if the weather continues pleasant, it will be one of the finest encampments in that state."

—The remains of Merrit S. Darrow, who died in Evanson, Ill., on Sunday, were brought to this city at noon to-day, and taken from the cars direct to the cemetery for burial. The deceased was sixty-seven years of age, and resided for a long time in this city. The funeral party were met at the depot by a number of friends residing in this city, who accompanied them to the cemetery.

—James Doherty, one of the members of a gypsy band camped near Black Hawk, was arrested to-day, charged with swindling. He traded horses with one of our citizens, representing the horse to be perfectly sound, but which had been doctored for the occasion. He appeared before the municipal court, pleaded not guilty, and the trial was set for 9 o'clock to-morrow morning.

—The young people's Guild of the Baptist church, will hold a social at the residence of William Payne, Esq., on the Maguella road, near the city limits, to-morrow evening. An invitation has been extended to the church and society. Carriages will be run from the corner of Franklin and Milwaukee streets to accommodate those who have no other mode of conveyance. The fare will be ten cents each way.

—We have been shown a copy of the Port-of-Spain Gazette, of a recent date, which contains a notice of the arrival in that port of the American Brigantine Camoo, John Neal, of this city, master. So many questions have been asked Captain Neal what he carries between New York and Trinidad, that the following from the Port-of-Spain Gazette, will interest his many friends in this city. The Camoo landed at Trinidad with the following cargo: 1353 barrels of flour, 100 half do. do., 224 do. bread and crackers, 200 do. corn meal, 30 do. pork, 25 half do. beef, 50 cases lard, 350 do. kerosene oil, 50 do. matches, 40 boxes cheese, 25 do. crackers, 20 bags black-eye peas, 200 do. corn, 20 dozen brooms, 2 carriages, 80 hhd. oil meal, 200 bundles shooks—Turabull, Stewart & Co.

A Good Dose of Taffy.

Perhaps there is no man in the city who takes greater delight in giving "taffy" than Will Bates. He has been in Chicago for a couple of days, and yesterday while killing time on one of the principal streets of that city, he discovered a sign of the Western Union telegraph company, around which several parties were standing, whom he rightly took for striking operators. Will held his head high as he rushed up to the group and inquired where he could find the superintendent of the office. One of the strangers inquired if he was an operator, and upon being answered in the affirmative, he asked Will where he was from, the answer being from Valentine's school of telegraphy at Janesville, and that he was one of five who had just arrived, being promised good positions by the Western Union managers. Here followed the taffy on the part of Will; he gave them enough to run a wholesale house for a year; they invited him up to their hall, and tried every way to induce him and his companion to return to Janesville; intimating that the brotherhood would pay their fare back; that the company would not keep them but a few days, when they would all be kicked out, and were not in the least complimentary to the Janesville school. Will says his joke was working nicely and he was anticipating a jolly time at the expense of the brotherhood, when in an unguarded moment he gave himself away. The spokesman of the brotherhood, on the way to their hall, asked Will how long he had been in the Western school of telegraphy at Janesville and Will answered about four months.

"Well, you just go right up there in the manager's office; he will give all such experts as you a good position. Here is the place, hurry up there or you may lose the position." Will says that best him, and he dodged around the corner, pushed through the tunnel, finished up his business, and soon started for home.

"What's the matter with baby, doctor?" "Colic, madam. Use Brown's Feeding Colic."

The Encampment.

The annual encampment of the First Regiment Wisconsin National Guard, at Janesville, commencing next week, promises to be the best encampment ever held by the first regiment, and the prospects of Company "E," the Beloit City Guard, making a nice appearance and representing the city of Beloit in a satisfactory manner are favorable. The boys certainly are very enthusiastic and will try and do their part to make the event a successful and profitable one, and it is to be hoped that those of our citizens employing members of the company will willingly and cheerfully arrange for their absence at least for a portion of the time of the encampment. In this way our company will be able to present itself with full ranks and consequently at its best, thereby not only reflecting credit upon itself as an organization but honor upon the city as well. The Guards are a company in which any community may take just pride. Efficiently officered and composed of young men of most orderly habits and the highest respectability, we cannot as citizens do any too much to uphold and maintain the company in its present splendid condition. It is the intention of the Guards to issue invitations to our citizens to visit the camp as guests of the company, and it is hoped that as many as can conveniently do so will accept and favor the boys with their presence.—Beloit Free Press.

The Emancipation Celebration in Beloit.

We take the following account of the Emancipation celebration in Beloit yesterday afternoon, from the Free Press:

August first is chosen as a day of rejoicing and formal display by the colored people in commemoration of the event of the emancipation from slavery of the colored slaves of Jamaica which occurred on this date in 1838. This emancipation led to the liberation of all the slaves of the West India Islands. In so much as the emancipation day of the American slaves is January first, and in an unseasonable time of the year for a celebration, this date, August first, seems better fitting for such an event. The colored people of this city have usually observed the day but never before have they made such extensive preparations or the visitors from other cities been so numerous as on this occasion.

Soon after one o'clock this afternoon a long procession of carriages was formed at the corner of Broad and State streets, and headed by the Beloit City band, proceeded up Broad street to Mechanic street, and from thence down School street to State, and then to Clark's grove, south of the city. In the procession was an open bus containing fourteen colored young ladies, neatly dressed in white, and wearing sashes of red, white and blue, representing the Goddess of Liberty and the original thirteen states of the Union. Mr. Charles Highwaler was the marshal of the day.

The speakers who were expected from abroad failed to appear, therefore the address was made at the picnic grounds by Rev. J. S. Woods, of this city. There are about four hundred colored folks present in the city, and they appear to be enjoying themselves about the city and at the picnic.

THE PRIVATE ASYLUM.

A Public Meeting Called To-Night.

There will be a public meeting held at the council chamber this evening at eight o'clock, for the purpose of obtaining an expression on the question of locating the private insane asylum in this city. Everybody who is interested in the matter, whether he can give anything or not, is invited to be present. The question is now an important one, because the location of the asylum here would be a substantial benefit to the city, and therefore the attendance should be large at the meeting this evening. Bear in mind the place and the hour, and be sure and attend.

The Milwaukee Exposition.

The third annual exhibition by the Milwaukee industrial exposition association, which opens on September 6th and closes on October 23rd, promises to be far ahead of former years, extra efforts having been made by the management to secure new and novel exhibits for the same, and the magnificent building will be filled to overflowing with an unprecedented display. The art department will be up to the usual high standard, claiming the attention of visitors by the choice pictures adorning the walls, many of the most famous artists of the world having contributed to the galleries. The railway exhibit promises to greatly excite anything yet presented, the demand for power being so great that the exposition association have been compelled to put in two extra engines in addition to the large "Corlies" which has done all the work at the last two exhibitions. This year the exhibitors generally, wherever practicable, will run their manufactures in the building, thus demonstrating how an article is made. This will prove a great attraction, and cannot fail to please as well as instruct. The conservatory will contain a fine horizontal display, and be laid out as a beautiful garden. Gold and silver medals are offered by the association for exhibits in this department, the success of which is already assured. The finest museum in the country has been secured, at an enormous expense, and will be on exhibition this fall.

Altogether, the Milwaukee exposition this fall will be well worth visiting, and no one should fail to take advantage of the low rates offered for the occasion. The prices of admission remain the same—twenty-five and fifteen cents, one price admitting the visitor to all parts of the building, as there will be no extra charge to any of the departments, notwithstanding the fact that the exposition association has been to enormous expense in many instances to secure desirable attractions.

Testimony from the Press.

To those afflicted with lung trouble, hear what W. D. Wilson, of the Ottawa (Ill.) Times says: "After being disabled for three months with a cough, and lung trouble, often spitting up blood, can testify that I am cured permanently by the use of Dr. Bigelow's Positive Cure." A free trial bottle can be had at Sterns & Baker's drug store.

GOVERNMENT TELEGRAPH.

What the New York Sun Thinks of Government Control of the Telegraph.

New York, Aug. 2.—The Sun, in editorial, says:

All the arguments offered by foolish persons in favor of a government telegraph, apply with equal force to a government railway. Everybody owns meat. Citizens who have never sent or received a telegraphic dispatch in their lives patronize the butcher shops habitually. The profits of the business are said to be great; the prices charged by butchers are frequently excessive. The public is more or less at the mercy of combinations to control the sources of supply and make corners in beef, pork and mutton. There is no doubt that by devoting the millions of acres of public lands to grazing purposes, by entering on a great scale into the business of breeding, raising, and slaughtering the edible animals, and by organizing a system of distribution as efficient as that now provided for the distribution of the mails, the government could supply the citizens of the United States with meat of all kinds at prices considerably lower than those now prevail. This would require forty or fifty thousand additional government employees. The last census enumerated about 15,000 traders in live stock, and about 55,000 dealers in produce and provisions. But with a force of 50,000 official butchers and butcher's assistants, selected by competitive examination, the government could probably cover the entire country and wherever a carrier service exists the roads, stables, and outlets could be delivered with the mails. Every consideration urged in support of the idea of a government telegraph applies with still greater force to a government undertaking bureau. Without exception, every man, woman and child now living in the United States will sooner or later into the undertaker's hands. There is no industry now controlled by private enterprise which the government could with more propriety supplant, or with a more equitable distribution of the benefits for which all in common would be taxed. There is a general impression that the prices now charged by the five or six thousand undertakers in the United States for their indispensable services are excessive, if not extortionate, and the necessity of the public. There, if anywhere, is a field for the extension of the functions of the government.

SENATOR VOORHEES.

He Explains the Positions of McDonald and Hendricks at Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 2.—The Enquirer has a telegram from Terry Haube, Ind., giving an interview with Senator Voorhees. The following is an extract from the Senator's remarks: "So many foolish things have been said and published about the attitude of Governor Hendricks and Mr. McDonald toward each other, that I am compelled to say something in a plain way which every body can understand. I have all my life been the warm personal and political friend of Gov. Hendricks, and I am so today. I tried from 1868 to 1880—twelve years—to make him President of the United States. I took my place in three national conventions as a delegate in his behalf, and did what I could for his success. At this I did because I knew him better than I do now, to be one of the ablest and purest men in this country I have ever produced. I went to Cincinnati in 1880 for him from the beginning to the end of the fight. McDonald was also a delegate, and he and I had a suite of rooms together at the Barnum house. We were in each other's company almost all the time, and had very few secrets. He submitted to me every proposition made to him, it happened to be made in my presence. There was a great deal of pressure at the time to induce him to allow the use of his name before the convention. To my personal knowledge he did not tolerate the idea at any time. It is sometimes insisted that Governor Hendricks is a candidate for keeping McDonald from becoming a candidate. That is all wrong. McDonald, like the honorable man that he is, decided that question for himself by declaring that he was there with a trust in his hands, and that trust should not be defeated by the use of his own name. It is not within my own absolute knowledge that Mr. McDonald was as true as steel on that occasion, to his own sense of honor, to his trust as a delegate, and consequently to Gov. Hendricks. I also know that McDonald's course and his failure to become a candidate did not in the least depend upon any wish expressed or implied on the part of Hendricks or on any contrivance on the part of Mr. English."

A New York Item.

New York, Aug. 2.—John Gulon, whose wife and two children, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Ellen Coleman, rented the fourth floor of the Vanderbilt flats, at 107 Lexington avenue, on May 1. Mrs. Coleman was 55 years old, and her health was feeble. A week ago Saturday Mr. Gulon took his wife and children to New Jersey, after arranging that Mrs. Coleman was to go on the following day to Staten Island, to spend several weeks with friends who reside in the city to get some clothing. He found his mother-in-law dead on the bed of the front hall bedroom. On a table at the end of the bed were two bottles of medicine and a half-empty cup of coffee.

It is supposed that Mrs. Coleman died early last week of rheumatism of the heart.

Sickness from Eating Tainted Meat.

SEAGRAM, Pa., Aug. 2.—Owing to large numbers recently in cases of cholera-morbus and other diseases, arising from eating improper food, Health Officer Sullivan has made rigid personal investigation, to learn what agency was instrumental in augmenting the city's unhealthfulness, and found that in nearly every case the victim had partaken of Chicago dressed beef. Large quantities of the article were condemned. Most of the sickness, the health officer says, was no doubt caused by the majority of whom obtained their meat of peddlers who purchased tainted meat from wholesalers. There are three supply depots in this city for the sale of Chicago beef, and they have been ordered not to unload another car until it has been personally inspected by the health officer.

Unfurling the Red Flag.

GRANVILLE, Aug. 2.—At a meeting of Socialists workmen violent speeches were made, naming the state to provide employment for workmen. The assembly afterward proceeded to the town hall, but the officials refused to receive a deputation, whereupon the leader of the procession unfurled a red flag. He and several others were arrested.
